SARTORIAL CONFLAGRATIONS

TRUMP NOT ALONE IN HAVING PANTS ON FIRE

December 1, 2017

WASHINGTON, DC ~ Armed Freedom
Since the following story appeared on 3/10/17 in The Miami Herald, the newspaper where Dave Barry works, we should tell you that we, also, are not making any of this up.

A Miami defense lawyer's pants burst into flames as he began his closing arguments in front of a jury - in an arson case. The lawyer was arguing that his client's car spontaneously combusted and was not intentionally set on fire. He had been fiddling in his pocket as he was about to address jurors when smoke began billowing out his right pocket. He rushed out of the Miami courtroom, leaving spectators stunned. After jurors were ushered out, the lawyer returned unharmed, with a singed pocket, insisting it wasn't a staged defense demonstration gone wrong. He blamed a faulty battery in his e-cigarette. The judge was considering holding him in contempt.

The lawyer is not alone. From the oath he took at his inauguration until now, Trump has distinguished himself as a serial prevaricator (although this is open to argument, since his speech is certainly congruent with the unique reality he inhabits along with its alternative facts).

Many have wondered how it is that Trump gets away with his lies and is not successfully held to account. A likely answer comes from a 6th grade student at St. Andrews Episcopal School, the president's son soon will be attending.

I'm always disappointed when a liar's pants don't actually catch on fire.

According to Brent Snodgrasse III, he and a number of his classmates believe that, while the president's pants are certainly on fire, it doesn't bother him because "his underpants are made of ass-bestos." Well. Consider the source.

The CDC suggests other reasons, and they're not pretty. They have to do with a rampant outbreak of Struthionis camelus effectus, better known as "The Ostrich Effect." Those thus afflicted avoid becoming aware of any information which might impact them negatively.

According to the World Ostrich Association, ostriches actually don't put their heads in the sand unless they're going after a piece of half-buried vegetation.

CONGRESS IN NECK AND NECK RACE WITH TRUMP

WORLD'S GREATEST DELIBERATE SWAMP ~ (Special to Freedom's View)

House GOP members voted unanimously earlier today to send to the Senate their Reform Of Taxation To Enhance None But Associations of Swampy Troglodytes Abusing the Really Deserving (ROTTEN BASTARD).

Shortly after their hurry-up vote, the Joint Committee on Taxation reported that, after 10 years, this ROTTEN BASTARD would add all of $1,000,000,000,000 to the deficit - after the GOP-promised growth was taken into account! As Americans who pay attention to unbiased news sources know, the GOP is now an example of very low life imitating medium-high art: the hit TV show "Whose Line is it Anyway?" That's the show where everything's made up and the points/facts don't matter.

In their race with our compulsively lying president, the GOP congress so far is clearly in a swampy, dead heat.

That said, The Ostrich Effect is very much a reality amongst humans. Whether contracted willfully or unconsciously, when the infection is full-blown, its victims inhabit an alternative reality unencumbered by any empirically verifiable facts that they might experience as harmful to their delusional world.

We have recently come across an image (below) of what, from a distance, appears to be a circle of worshippers bowing down before the object of their devotion. Upon closer inspection, this is only half-right. The worshippers actually have their heads in the sand! The object of their devotion is Donald J. Trump, whose pants are on fire.

nor the GOP congress could have or maintain their power.

Experts are divided about the source of the infection, but the CDC has shown a connection to a product first marketed in 2013 called The Ostrich Hat. Billed initially as a $99 way for weary travelers to catch a nap in noisy venues such as airports, its usage has morphed (above right). While it does provide some protection while banging one's head on a desk after reading the latest lies from Trump and the GOP (right), ostrich-like tuning out their dereliction of sworn patriotic duty only enables their infection to continue. Clearly, the president cannot change himself. Given most cabinet members' beheading-by-sand, the 25th amendment is not likely to be a means for the President's removal.

Office of President of the United States, and (to) . . . preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States." A sensible patriotism will see to it that he is thus removed.

From the looks of the worshippers, they are ordinary citizens taken over by The Ostrich Effect. Most voted for Trump. Each supports him now. This is only possible amongst those whose infections, while dangerous to themselves, may well prove to be fatal to us all. Were it not for the current outbreak of Struthionis, neither Trump Because 2020 is too long to wait, it's fortunate that most GOP members of Congress have their heads in the sand (above right). Given their postural vulnerability, it should be an easy and enjoyable exercise to give them a useful goosing. Done persistently, that might help convince their constituents of the need for change in 2018.

In any case, Trump must be removed from office by virtue of his manifest incapacity to "faithfully execute the

So to that end, please, click on the TAKE ACTION tab. Explore the two linked websites there. They're designed to help you find like-minded people near you with whom you can organize. It's time to replace the duplicitous head-in-the-sand members of Congress who would rather preserve their power than use it for the benefit of ALL Americans. Enough with their false, delusional, alternative reality. Let's light a truthful fire and burn the swamp dry!
